

I have constructed an electric circuit in the shape of lungs. It includes resistors, capacitors, inductors, and an alternating voltage source. This artistic expression represents how I refuse to allow Cystic Fibrosis to discourage me. I use CF as a source of power to pass by resistance and impedance, and pursue my goal of a career in physics. My determination not to be stopped by CF has turned it into a source of motivation.