

Within each cough, a warrior's cry,
A spirit unyielding, reaching for the sky
Through hardships faced, and tears shed,
We rise above, with hearts undeterred.

Our lungs may struggle, yet our hearts beat strong,
In the face of adversity, we bravely belong.
For every treatment, a step forward we take,
Defying the odds, a journey we make.

Together we stand, a united force,
Supporting each other, staying the course.
In this journey shared, we find solace and grace,
Finding hope in the warmth of an embrace.

So let us celebrate, with hope in our eyes,
Cystic Fibrosis, a beacon that ties,
Dreams and goals, we will pursue,
Defying limitations, as we push through.

With strength and determination, we'll reach new heights,
Illuminating the darkness, with our shining lights.
For Cystic Fibrosis will not define our fate,
Together, we can transcend and create.
