

My art project is a paper collage of my lungs. The photograph comprising my left upper lobe is a picture of my mom, my sister, and myself hiking near Mt. Rainier. The first of the two photographs that comprise my left lower lobe is a picture of me snow shoeing in Tahoe. The second picture is of my friends and I after our college graduation. The photograph comprising my right upper lobe is a picture of my partner and I in front of the San Francisco cityscape. The photograph comprising my right middle lobe is a picture of my sister and I scuba diving. The first of the two photographs that comprise my right lower lobe is a picture of my sister and I at my medical school White Coat Ceremony. The second picture is of myself during my senior year of college photoshoot.

My trachea is comprised of tubing that can be used with a chest wall oscillator machine. My stethoscope that I use to auscultate patients is also shown. These symbols represent my duality as both a cystic fibrosis patient and a physician-in-training.
